Outstanding Catholic Historian The Lectures Here on Middle East

Richard Pattee, internationally known author, lecturer and historian, will speak here Monday evening, Feb. 6, at 8:15 in Terence Donaghoe hall. Subject of his lecture, which will be open to the public, will be the Middle East.

Pattee, an outstanding lay Catholic, has served as foreign correspondent and consultant on international affairs with the National Catholic Welfare Conference. In the early 1950's he gained membership on the Vatican commission in UNESCO, as a representative of the United States. He is also ex-president of the American Catholic Historical association.

Here's Who We Think Should Be 'Woman of the Year'

Courage, intelligence and prudence are the qualities Clarke girls praise in choosing their "Woman of 1955."

Kathleen Mortell, freshman from Rock Island, Ill., says: My choice is Clare Booth Luce who is both a successful writer and politician. America came to recognize the part she played in politics when she was named ambassador to Italy in 1953. Mrs. Luce recently retired from politics, but she will always be remembered as a great Catholic woman in United States history. I think she deserves to be called "Woman of the Year."

Junior Maurita Brady from Downers Grove, Ill., states: Health is important to happiness. One of the greatest threats to health in the United States is polio which strikes thousands of children and adults every year. By her continued efforts in the fight against this affliction, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby has brought happiness to many families and has started us on the way to establishing a better

Miss Kuhn Miss Mortell

Miss Brady country. I consider Mrs. Hobby well qualified to be voted "Woman of the Year."

Sandra Tom, a Western Springs, Ill., freshman, says: Current headlines are lauding the recent engagement of Grace Kelly to her Monacon Prince Rainier III. I admire her for having the good sense and fortitude to use her own head in such private matters as religion and marriage. She plans to marry one of her own faith, a Roman Catholic, and is ready and willing to leave Hollywood and all its glory. I nominate "her grace" for "Woman of "her grace" the Year."

A sophomore from Milwau- tesy . . kee, Wis., Margaret Kuhn says:

Here's Your Chance: Orchids to 'Successful' Salesmen This Is Leap Year!

If orchids were bricks we would gladly make beautiful leis for the Clarke students who cooperated so generously in the brick-selling project for Clarke's new building. The drive was a big success.

Yes, the drive was successful: it brought in a substantial amount of money. But perhaps we would consider it a failure if we looked at the results in terms of student response.

The real success of the drive must be determined by the students themselves since only they, individually, know if they entered wholeheartedly into the plan. To those who did their part, congratulations are in order. Whether the fruit of their efforts was 50 cents or 50 dollars, it matters little. Results in such a project cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but rather in the effort that is put

There will be no list of "successful" salesmen used as a criterion. Each Clarkite must evaluate her own personal effort and judge for herself whether or not she contributed to the success of the drive.

To those students who deserve a lei of orchids, we again say congratulations. To those who do not, we pose this question: How successful would your SLC be if all Clarke students were as unconcerned as you?
